AMENDMENTS TO HKAS/IAS 1, HKAS/IAS 8 AND PRACTICE STATEMENT 2 - DISCLOSURE OF ACCOUNTING POLICIES AND DEFINITION OF ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES

STATUS

Final

EFFECTIVE DATE

Annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023.

ACCOUNTING IMPACT

Some entities may reduce the extent to which they disclose certain accounting policies and the distinction between changes in accounting estimate and changes in accounting policy may be easier to distinguish.

BACKGROUND

The IASB issued IFRS Practice Statement 2 Making Materiality Judgements was issued in September 2017. The aim of IFRS Practice Statement 2 is to provide entities with non-mandatory guidance on how to make materiality judgements when preparing their general purpose financial statements in accordance with IFRS Standards. The HKICPA issued equivalent HKFRS Practice Statement 2 Making Materiality Judgements (HKFRS Practice Statement 2) on 22 March 2021. HKFRS Practice Statement 2 issued in March 2021 has not incorporated the amendments in IFRS Practice Statement 2 as a result of the Disclosure Initiative Project in February 2021.

As part of its ongoing Disclosure Initiative Project, on 12 February 2021, the IASB issued narrow-scope amendments to:

- IAS 1 Presentation of Financial Statements
- IAS 8 Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors
- IFRS Practice Statement 2 Making Materiality Judgments

The amendments are intended to assist entities as follows:

- Amend IAS 1 to require 'material accounting policy information' to be disclosed rather than 'significant accounting policies' and provide additional guidance in deciding which accounting policies should be disclosed;
- Amend IAS 8 to directly define the term 'accounting estimate' to clarify the distinction between a change in
- accounting policy and a change in accounting estimate; and
- Amend IFRS Practice Statement 2 to provide guidance on how to apply the concept of materiality to accounting policy disclosures.

On 20 April 2021, the HKICPA published the equivalent amendments to HKAS 1, HKAS 8 and HKFRS Practice Statements 2.

AMENDMENTS TO HKAS/IAS 1 AND HKFRS/IFRS PRACTICE STATEMENT 2

What has been amended in HKAS/IAS 1?

Several paragraphs of HKAS/IAS 1 were amended, including HKAS/IAS 1.10, which has been amended as follows:

| Prior to amendments | Subsequent to amendments (emphasis added) |
|--|---|
| A complete set of financial statements comprises: | A complete set of financial statements comprises: |
| (e) notes, comprising significant accounting policies and other explanatory information; | (e) notes, comprising material accounting policy information and other explanatory information; |

Prior to these amendments being issued, some entities interpreted the requirement to disclose 'significant accounting policies' broadly to mean virtually all accounting policies that an entity applies in preparing financial statements in accordance with HKFRS/IFRS. This might have included disclosure of immaterial accounting policies (eg policies relating to foreign exchange when an entity has very limited transactions in currencies other than its functional currency), policies where HKFRS/IFRS provides no optionality (eg the recognition of deferred tax assets and liabilities) or disclosure of policies that had not changed.

What is 'material accounting policy information'?

HKAS/IAS 1.117 was amended to state that 'accounting policy information is material if, when considered together with other information included in an entity's financial statements, it can reasonably be expected to influence decisions that the primary users of general purpose financial statements make on the basis of those financial statements.'

The amendments aim to require disclosure of accounting policy information that focuses on how an entity has applied the requirements of HKFRSs/IFRSs to its own circumstances (ie entity-specific information rather than a summary of what HKFRSs/IFRSs require or immaterial information).

HKAS/IAS 1.117B states that accounting policy information is likely to be considered material if it relates to material transactions, other events or conditions and:

| Examples in HKAS/IAS 1.117B | Situation where this example may be met | Situation where this example may not be met |
|---|--|--|
| Changes in accounting policy | An entity adopts a new HKFRS/IFRS (eg an insurance company adopting HKFRS/IFRS 17 in 2023) or an entity changes an accounting policy (eg changing policy from the cost to revaluation model in HKAS/IAS 16). | The accounting policy has not changed. |
| A choice of one or more options in HKFRS/IFRS | An entity elects to use the fair value model for investment property rather than the cost model. | The requirements of HKAS/IAS 12, which are mandatory, with no optionality. |

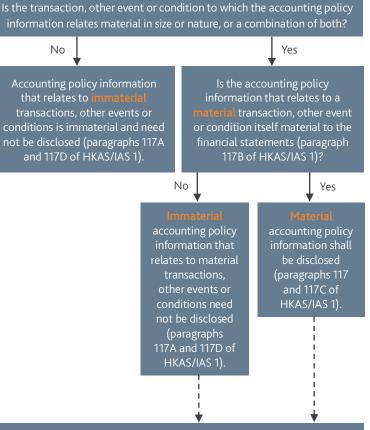

| Examples in HKAS/IAS 1.117B | Situation where this example may be met | Situation where this example may not be met |
| Developed in the absence of specific HKFRS/IFRS requirements | An accounting policy developed relating to a business combination occurring between two entities under common control, which is not included within the scope of HKFRS/IFRS 3. | The requirements of HKAS/IAS 12, which are mandatory, with no application of HKAS/IAS 8 required to develop a policy in the particular circumstance. |
| Significant judgement or assumptions used in applying accounting policy | Significant judgement is required in determining multiple aspects of an entity's revenue recognition policies (eg determining the transaction price, allocating the transaction price to multiple performance obligations, etc.). | Determining which costs to be capitalised in property, plant and equipment when little to no judgement is required in making this assessment (eg the purchase price is capitalised). |
| Accounting requirement is complex and users would otherwise not understand the transactions | Accounting for complex financial instruments (eg convertible notes and other compound financial instruments or those with multiple embedded derivatives). | The requirement in HKAS/IAS 21 to translate monetary items denominated in a currency other than the functional currency of the entity as at period end. |

DO THESE AMENDMENTS TO HKAS/IAS 1 AFFECT THE DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS OF OTHER HKFRSs/IFRSs?

No, HKAS/IAS 1.117E states that an entity's conclusion that accounting policy information is immaterial does not affect the related disclosure requirements set out in other HKFRSs/IFRSs. For example, an entity may conclude that it has no material accounting policy information to disclose relating to property, plant and equipment, however, if material, the entity must still disclose the information required by HKAS/IAS 16.

What has been amended in HKFRS/IFRS Practice Statement 2?

HKFRS/IFRS Practice Statement 2 Making Materiality Judgements has been amended to provide non-mandatory guidance on how entities may make materiality judgements in determining which accounting policy information is material. The Practice Statement was amended to include numerous examples of how an entity may apply the amendments in HKAS/IAS 1 to specific fact patterns (eg impairment of assets, revenue recognition, etc.). The amendments to the Practice Statement also introduce this diagrammatic summary of the requirements of HKAS/IAS 1 concerning the disclosure of material accounting policy information:

Note: an entity's conclusion that accounting policy information is immaterial does not affect the related disclosure requirements set out in other HKFRS/IFRS Standards (paragraph 117E of HKAS/IAS 1).

What effect might these amendments have on an entity's financial statements?

A common criticism of HKFRS/IFRS financial statements has been that they contain too much irrelevant information, not enough entity-specific information and irrelevant information often obscures useful information. An entity applying these amendments may not only reduce the length of their financial statements, but also highlight more useful information to users of financial statements

AMENDMENTS TO HKAS/IAS 8

What has been amended in HKAS/IAS 8?

Prior to these amendments, HKAS/IAS 8 did not directly define 'accounting estimates'; it only defined a 'change in accounting estimate'. These amendments now directly define an accounting estimate as:

| Term | Definition |
| Accounting estimate | Accounting estimates are monetary ¹ amounts in financial statements that are subject to measurement uncertainty. |

HKAS/IAS 8.32A and 34A further explain that an entity uses measurement techniques and inputs to develop an accounting estimate. Measurement techniques include estimation techniques (eg techniques used to measure a loss allowance for expected credit losses applying HKFRS/IFRS 9) and valuation techniques (eg techniques used to measure the fair value of an asset or liability applying HKFRS/IFRS 13).

The effects on an accounting estimate of a change in an input or a change in a measurement technique are changes in accounting estimates unless they result from the correction of prior period errors (eg a change in measurement technique used to estimate expected credit losses).

Why was this amendment made?

The IFRS Interpretations Committee informed the Board of difficulties encountered by preparers in distinguishing changes in accounting policy from changes in accounting estimate. This distinction is important because these two changes are accounted for differently:

| Type of Change | Accounting Requirement |
|-------------------------------|---|
| Change in accounting estimate | Recognised prospectively in the period of the change, if the change affects that period only (eg a change in expected credit loss estimation) or the period of the change and future periods, if the change affects both (eg a change in the estimated useful life of an item of property, plant and equipment). |
| Change in accounting policy | Aside from changes in accounting policy relating to the initial application of an HKFRS/IFRS, where specific transitional requirements exist, a change in accounting policy is generally accounted for retrospectively (eg comparatives are restated as if that change in accounting policy had always been in effect). |

Now that accounting estimates are defined directly, entities may find it easier to distinguish between a change in accounting estimate and a change in accounting policy.

¹The term 'monetary amount' does not have the same meaning as the term 'monetary item' as defined in HKAS/IAS 21.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The amendments to HKAS/IAS 1 and HKAS/IAS 8 are mandatorily effective for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023 with earlier application permitted. As HKFRS/IFRS Practice Statement 2 is non-mandatory guidance issued by the HKICPA and the IASB, it is not a 'Standard' and therefore no mandatory adoption date for the amendments has been specified.

The amendments to HKAS/IAS 8 apply only to changes in accounting estimates and changes in accounting policies that occur on or after the beginning of the first annual reporting period in which it applies the amendments (ie an entity is not required to revisit previous changes in accounting policies/estimates).
